

HAYES IS INSTALLED AS NEW ARCHBISHOP

Army and Naval officials and High Dignitaries of Church Attend Ceremony in New York.

APOSTOLIC DELEGATE TALKS

Monsignor Benzano Says Critical Hour Is Far off in World—World Still Trembling, He Says.

TULSA, Okla., March 19.—Archbishop Hayes' installation as new archbishop of the Catholic church and other religious leaders attended the installation ceremony of Most Reverend Casimir Joseph Hayes, bishop of the Diocese of Tulsa, at the Hotel St. Francis, where the Masses were said for Bishop Hayes. The Masses were said for Bishop Hayes by the priests of the Diocese of Tulsa, the most prominent which was said in the Latin Rite, a solemn Mass, in his honor. Masses were said in both Latin and English, where the pallium, or symbol of a bishop, was received from Bishop Hayes, and the pallium dispensation made possible in consideration of Archbishop Hayes' death last fall. The ceremony celebrated was performed in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, with the cardinal's vestments, and Bishop Hayes' name was mentioned in the cause of the new bishops of Albany and Buffalo, and because Bishop Hayes will be next this year for emancipation must be emphasized.

The ceremony began with a procession of 1,000 clergy and laymen from the cathedral to the cathedral. After Archbishop Hayes was seated, he recited the Mass and then had been installed in his episcopal throne in Most Reverend Michael Lavelle, who was elected to the same duty by a vote of priests, deacons and clerics.

Addressess were delivered by Monsignor John Bonzano, apostolic delegate; Monsignor Murray, Chaplain George J. Warrin of the 11th cavalry, and Supreme Court Justice Victor Dowling.

Monsignor Benzano declared that "Archbishop Hayes' health has no weight in the influence of New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, America's three largest cities, in national affairs."

"In every department of life problems of the gravest character multiply day by day," said the apostolic delegate, "so far trembling from its mighty conflict, the world is impatient to clear away its ruins and reconstruct the structure of society. Law and order, individual and national existence, science and civilization are all involved in this crisis. Religion itself is not exempt—our faith, our hope, our virtue that have hitherto served as the basis of freedom—all are at stake, all dependent upon the issue to which events are so rapidly moving."

BIG SULPHUR OUTPUT IS OBTAINED IN TEXAS WELL

HOUSTON, Tex., March 19.—Sulphur at the rate of 12,000 tons in 12 hours was produced by an operating company in a new well, it was test conducted Tuesday and Wednesday at Big Hill in Matagorda county. The company, which for two years has been constructing extensive works at Big Hill, began operations Tuesday. Two other wells are almost ready to be operated and it is expected they will increase the plant's daily output to approximately 15,000 tons.

The new wells at Big Hill are the third set to be operated in the gulf coast region, others being at Freeport, Tex., and in Louisiana. The caption of their well, it was stated by officials of the company, is sufficient to supply the world. A major portion of the United States supply of sulphur is now being obtained from these wells, it was said.

A unique process is employed in mining the sulphur. A well is drilled into the deposit and steam forced into this well. The steam comes into contact with the sulphur and the water at once reduces it to a vapor. This vapor rises to the surface of the earth through the well pipe and as soon as it comes into contact with the air it is cooled and solidified.

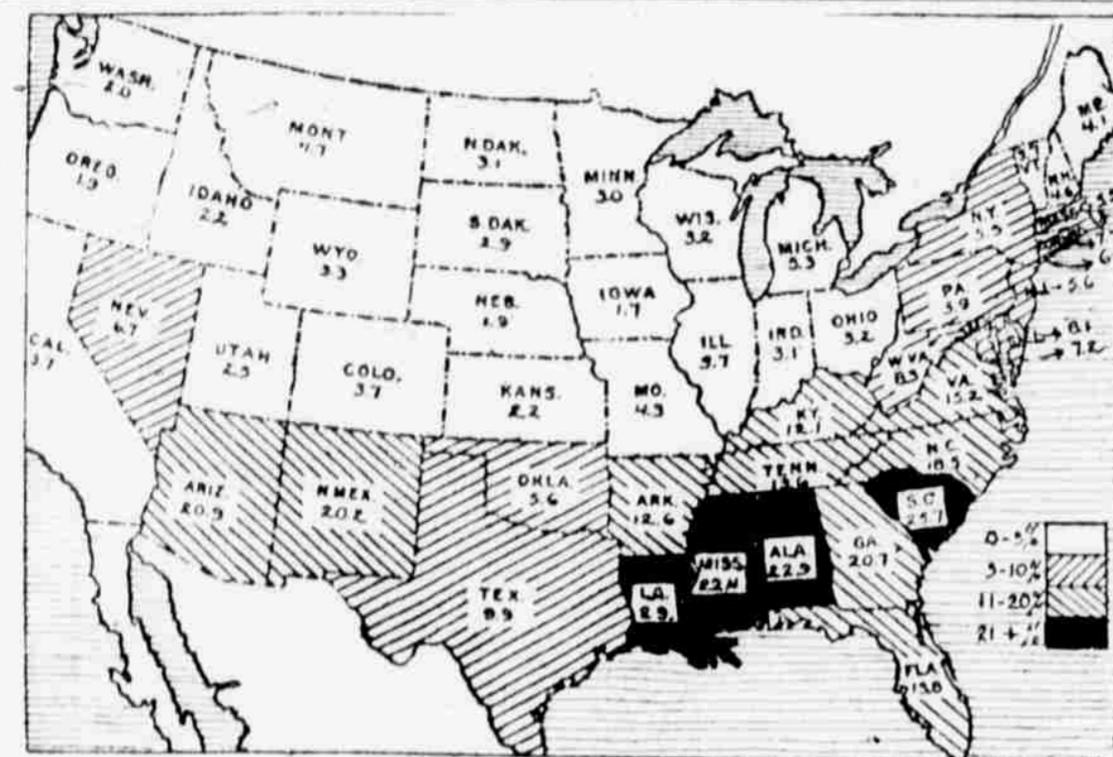

To Direct Air Training.

Sherman, of the engineer corps, has been detailed as chief of air service training which will include heavier-than-air training at both the ground schools and flying field under Brig. Gen. William G. Sheppard, director of military aeronautics. Colonel Sherman is a flyer and has been connected with the air service several years.

Huge Illiteracy Problem Confronts U. S.

Literacy map of the United States.

seeks to end illiteracy in the United States over 10 years of age cannot read an ordinary statement or announcement made in the language of America. Five and a half million cannot read anything in any language.

These illiterates and others, numbering all the people in Nevada, Wyoming, Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Vermont, Rhode Island, both Dakotas, Oregon, Maine, Florida, Connecticut and Washington combined, accepting the latest federal census as the basis of computation. They exceed the population of Canada. As voters their ballot would weigh the influence of New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, America's three largest cities, in national affairs.

It is both a northern and a southern problem, in other words, a national problem. The north has more non-English speaking people. The south has more English speaking people.

Here is the problem of Americanization. Here is a task, tremendous in scope and importance, which confronts the people of the United States. Awakened to the task by the revelations of the war, it is a task for the nation and the state, for local communities for the individuals.

"What," asks Secretary Lane, "should be said of a democracy which permits tens of thousands of native born children to be taught American history in a foreign language—the declaration of independence and famous Gettysburg address in German and other tongues?" What should be said of a democracy which permits men and women to work in places where they seldom or never hear a word of English spoken?"

The tribunes during the closing days of the last congress killed the Smith-Hawley bill, designed to promote through co-operation with the States, the education of native literates, or persons unable to understand and use the English language and of the other residents of foreign birth. The bill probably will be reintroduced at the next session.

willingly take their children away from the educational advantages of the great city and bury them in the ordinary country school.

Ancient Pretenses.

Now is the time for the United States to realize that education is no more a local issue than a national one. The nation, the age-old arguments, the subjects of many a unhappy compromise, tell like the hollow buttresses of a false structure.

But a new emancipation proclamation is needed. There can be no real freedom for any, black or white, who grope in intellectual darkness. The world war waged by us to save the sovereignty of the world, with us, has thrown into the other recesses of our land, revealed the intellectual slavery in which millions of native born Americans have been forced to live because the fallacious old arguments denied them, as they denied the black slave, equality of opportunity.

Local Issue.

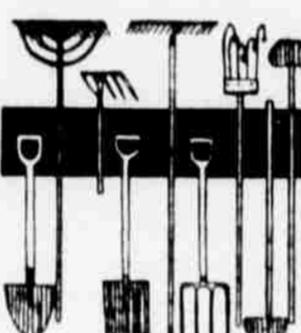

They came into the camps called to die for freedom, those men, many of them of that purest native American blood, descendants of the pioneers who 200 or more years ago crossed the mountains and valleys and carved out the original states. And they could neither read nor write because the great country founded on equality of opportunity had held to a hands-off policy and as slavery days, had left education to a local issue.

In the camps they met many foreigners, some of whom spoke English, but they met others, some of the foreign-born, the first generation in this country, and these latter, because they had landed in Boston or New York or some other rich port where the schools were the pride of the city, these first generation Americans, were educated, the products, many of them, of the best schools of the land, and many of them arrived with graduate in full possession of all the benefits of this land of equal opportunity.

Suppose they did have to live in crowded quarters, education was worth it, and so the "local issue" education has its share of blame in creating the slums of large cities and the communities for exploitation, for an ignorant father and mother much as they desire country life, will arguments proved fallacious as fitting reasons for the continuance of slavery, so they must prove fallacious as reasons for the continuance of the educational injustice made to more than half the children of our land.

Make Ideal Real.

Education is a national, state and community problem. National, state and community funds must be pooled to consolidate schools and combine plants and provide supplies and trained teachers. The nation must be fully responsible for the education of all children in the schools and our ideal of equal opportunity. Through its means it must disseminate knowledge of the best methods, it must provide helpful supervision and greater aid in the training of teachers. It must guarantee, in fact as in theory, an educated electorate. Then each state and each community must build on this minimum standard, according to its environment and possibilities, to meet the needs of the people.

Then these means and these united efforts are sure to prevail.

The educational emancipation must come now. Only the most thorough understanding of sound principles of Americanism can save our native democracy in the forthcoming world clash with totalitarianism. We have based our faith and our nation on equal opportunity for all. Now we must make that opportunity available to all to the degree as well as its merits, but there comes a time when one must translate desire into deed, or stand forsaken.

Boxing Bout Staged By Guard Members

Company B Scores Highest in Fist-cuff Contest Between Companies at Armory

Local members of the Oklahoma national guard held a smoker last night at the Armory at Fifth and Boston, the entertainment being a fist-cuff contest between companies of several gatherings that are being held from time to time.

Men from the different companies were pitted against each other in a boxing tournament, and while no knockouts occurred in any of the bouts, the humor of the evening was due to the entry from Company B, Captain C. W. Johnson, in which he endeavored to impress upon the men that they are soldiers and should conduct themselves as such. He reviewed the history of the second regiment Oklahoma national guard and told the boys how proud he was to be a member of such an organization. In glowing terms he praised the work of the first regiment Oklahoma national guard for the wonderful show they made against the Hun.
